

Astronomy Education Review

aer.aas.org

The Astronomy Education Review is an online journal that provides a meeting place for all those engaged in astronomy and space science education, in either formal or informal settings. The Review can help you:

- Publish the results of research in education
- Learn how to apply education research in the classroom
- Identify useful resources and reviews of them by other educators
- Find out about workshops, symposia, cooperative projects, funding sources, and job openings
- Communicate with others engaged in projects or courses like yours
