

Physics

physics.aps.org

Editor

David Voss,
American Physical Society

Assistant Editor

Jessica Thomas,
American Physical Society

The American Physical Society, the leading publisher of peer reviewed physics research papers, is pleased to announce a new international online publication, Physics. The online publication showcases commentaries and review articles written by prominent physicists at the forefront of their fields. Their articles reflect the most significant advances and innovative research over wide variety of physics topics. Authors of articles in this new and high impact science publication reach thousands of their colleagues instantaneously through this emerging science portal. Readers, researchers, editors, students, and librarians can now heighten their awareness and gain valued insight into the most important research offered by APS.

Don't miss this opportunity to collaborate with your colleagues and gain access to over 100 premium articles per year – PLUS eMail Alerts on hot topics, RSS feeds, and more.

2009 Publication Frequency

Volume 1 (12 issues)

Format Online

ISSN Online: 1943-2879

For prices and ordering information, see pages 52-53.

17