

Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences

pnas.org

PNAS is one of the world's most-cited multidisciplinary scientific serials. With its breadth of content and the quality of its papers, PNAS is the best way to keep up with cutting-edge research in a broad range of scientific disciplines spanning the biological, physical, and social sciences and mathematics. In addition to research papers, PNAS publishes incisive commentaries on papers of particular importance, timely reviews, and reports of colloquia held under the auspices of the National Academy of Sciences. PNAS is published weekly in print and daily online. PNAS Online receives over 11.6 million hits per month.

2009 Publication Frequency

Volume 106 (52 issues) weekly

Format

Print & online

Online Backfile

1915-2008

ISSN 0027-8424

Editor-in-Chief

Randy Schekman,
*University of California,
Berkeley, CA*

ISI's Impact and Immediacy Data (2007)

Impact Factor: 9.598
Immediacy Index: 1.724