

Henry Barton, the first Director of the American Institute of Physics, riding a log flume with his family in France