

Photographs of African Americans at Hanford During World War II

Below are a few photographs from the U.S. Department of Energy which show African American life at Hanford.

The Hanford Eagles, September 21, 1944.

Image from the U.S. Department of Energy, <http://energy.gov/em/articles/commemorating-black-history-contributions-african-americans-manhattan-project>

A member of the Hanford Eagles baseball team.

Image source: U.S. Department of Energy.

Image from Safe as Mother's Milk: The Hanford Project, <http://hanfordproject.com/photos.html>.

Workers at Hanford, July 20, 1944.

Image from the U.S. Department of Energy, <http://energy.gov/em/articles/commemorating-black-history-contributions-african-americans-manhattan-project>.

Black and white workers wait in line for their pay at the Hanford Engineering Works, ca. 1943-1945.

Image source: U.S. Department of Energy, Creator: U.S. War Department.

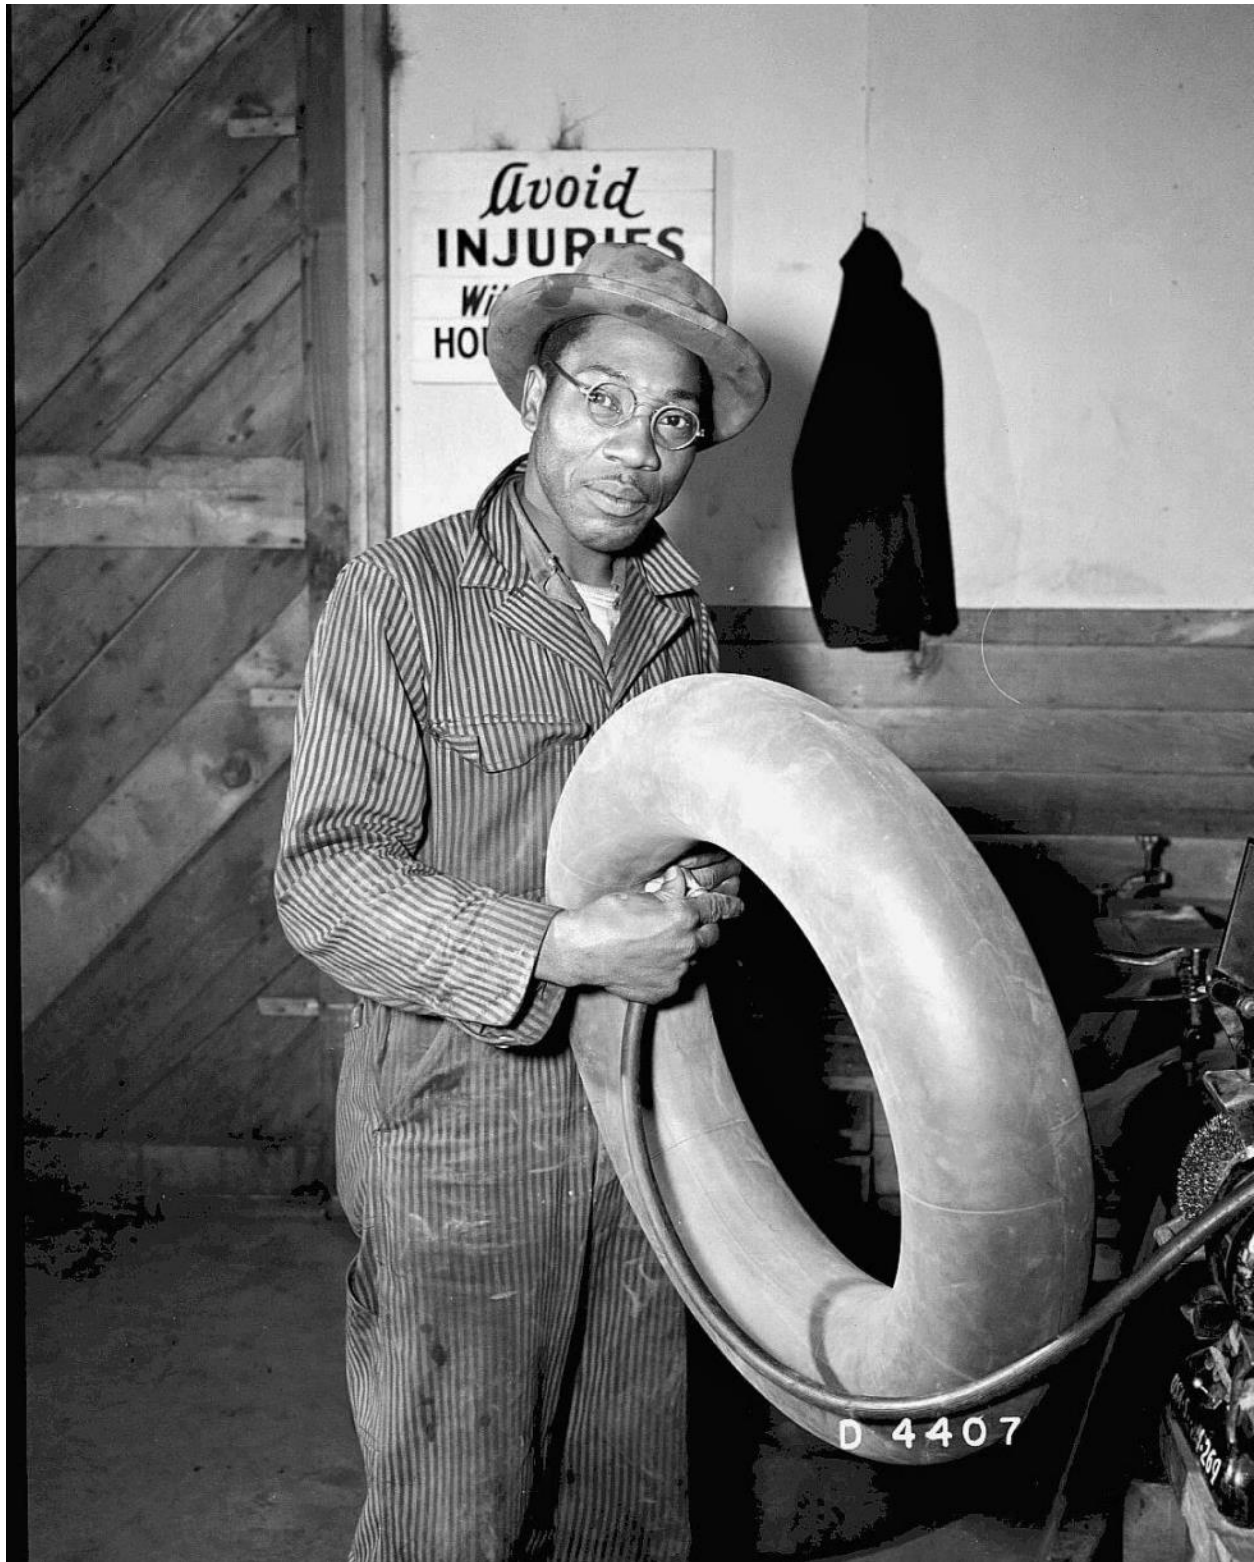

Image found at <http://reachstories.org/files/show/114>.

Hanford workers, ca. 1943-1945.

Image source: U.S. Department of Energy, Creator: U.S. War Department.
Image from Wikimedia Commons.

Worker repairing an inner tube at Hanford Site, ca. 1943-1945.

Image source: U.S. Department of Energy, Creator: U.S. War Department. Image found at <http://reachstories.org/files/show/117>.

Black Hanford employees buy supplies for their homes, ca. 1943-1945.
Image source: U.S. Department of Energy, Creator: U.S. War Department.
Image found at <http://reachstories.org/files/show/118>.

Truck driver moving housing at Hanford, ca. 1943-1945.
Image source: U.S. Department of Energy, Creator: U.S. War Department.
Image found at <http://reachstories.org/files/show/126>.

African Americans at one of the Hanford camp's taverns which were segregated by race, ca. 1943-1945.

Image source: U.S. Department of Energy, Creator: U.S. War Department.

Image found at <http://reachstories.org/files/show/129>.