

Recent Enrollments in Introductory Physics Courses

Of all students taking intro physics courses in the U.S., 26% took them at a two-year college.

Note: There were an additional 16K students enrolled primarily in other (vocational or technical) introductory physics courses at two-year colleges. Enrollments at four-year colleges and universities were limited to physics degree-granting departments.

Data on four-year institutions was from 2010-11; data on two-year colleges was from 2011-12.
